THE HERMES CASE YESTERDAY.

Court convened at 10 o'clock in the morning, in pursuance of adjournment, when it was agreed that the jury should visit the ground in dispute, with two experts and an attorney from each side. Messrs. Wescoatt and Keyes were the experts and engineers selected-the former representing the plaintiffs and the latter the defendants; and Mr. Wren, of counsel for plaintiffs, and Judge Bishop, of the defense, were the accompanying attorneys. The jury, having visited the mine according to agreement, answered to the call of their names at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

The following testimony was inadvertently omitted from our last report : vertently omitted from our last report:

G. Lyttle called for plaintiffs—First came here in 1805; came in June, I think; came here for ore from the Panaca mine; came for Bill Hamlin; brought three ox teams: I got ore at the Panaca mine; took it to Salt Lake and put it in Livingston's corral; got five or six tons; they were working at the Panaca mine at the time; I saw a hole 12 or 16 feet deep; saw a cut to the north of the shaft; think there was a scaffold in the shaft; the ore I got was outside a hole on a dump; the dump was held up by rock piled up on the lower side; am positive I came in 1805; may be mistaken in the year; came here from Mcadow Valley; had moved a family from Shoal Creek; had three wagons.

ley; had noved a family from Shoal Creek; had three wagons.

Cross-examined—There were men working at the mine when I was there; don't know what was done with the ore after delivering it in Salt Lake; heard that it was smelted in Bush Valley; the ore was measured in a little square box; don't know how many cubic feet I hauled away; I was to have been paid, for five tons, but never got a cent; don't know that it was taken to Salt Lake for the church; I am a Mormon, don't know that I saw lumber; I saw a scaffold in the shaft; didn't pay much attention to the scaffold; don't know who the men were who were working there; they seemed to be digging; I made the bargain with Bill Hamlin to haul ore; asked Hamlin for pay; he said he didn't have any money; don't know how deep down the scaffold was; couldn't see the bottom of the hole; I'm 24 years old; was about 19 when I came here.

PARANAGAT VALLEY .- This beautiful spot lies 60 miles southwest from here by way of Bullionville. Reports from there are of a cheering tone. Charley Heath, the Superintendent of the Hiko mill, contemplates starting up on the 1st of next month on the richest body of ore that has yet been worked. They are getting out mineral in many places which will mill $300 to the ton. As water and mill sites are plenty, and the pros-pect justifies the outlay, we learn that within a short time Wm. Raymond, Harry Henderson and others will erect another mill, As it is, an extensive force of miners will be put on next month, to push through the present tunnel prospect, and extend developments. The rains, of which they've had suffi-cient, tend to make the farmers in the valley jubilant. The crops of wheat and barley are above ground and doing well, and much corn has been planted. Garden vegetables are planted in abundance, and the outlook is most encouraging. We learn that many miners from here will leave for Pahranagat in a few

A BEAUTIFUL BUT EXTRAVAGANT WO-MAN .- Envied by her own and admired by the opposite sex, she is the sensation of the hour, whenever and wherever she appears. We have her here in Pioche; in all her expensive loveliness she may at any time be seen on Lacour street, op-posite the post-office. She holds forth in the show-window of Mrs. Whyland's millinery store; and by entering that es-tablishment ladies who are jealous of her gorgeous array will see displayed the means of appearing in equal splendor. Mrs. Whyland's stock of hats, bonnets, flowers, feathers, etc., is the most varied, fashionable and complete in Pioche.

SHOOTING YESTERDAY. --- A throng gathered yesterday shortly after noon on Main street called together by two reports from a pistol. A man named Dwyer while under the inflence of spirituous decoctions playfully pulled his "shooter" and shot into the air, his friends then tried to take the pistol from him, and in the melee it was again discharged, the ball making close call by going through the hat of a bystander. The shootist was arrested and lodged in jail. Somebody will be hurt fooling with them things yet.

For Nevada State Lottery tickets, call on H. R. Breakey, on Main street, opposite Meadow Valley, and for those of the Royal Havana and Louisville lotteries, you can be accommodated at H. M. Jameson's, Lacour street.

BENEFIT NIGHT .- The complimentary benefit tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Bates, this evening, by their numerous friends, in Pioche, promises to be a big success. A very large number of tickets are already disposed of.

Dead and Dying in the Sagebyush.

Hearing that the body of a dead Indian had been discovered in the sagebrush hills, outside of town, our reporter, in company with the informant and Mr. Williams, the hospital steward, started for the spot yesterday morning. After a tedious search the remains were found lying in a narrow canyon or hollow about a mile and a quarter northeast from the Court-house. After removing the cedar boughs by which it was covered, it proved to be a man, partly clad in an old gray flannel shirt and the remnants of a pair of cotton drawers. The body lay partly coiled, and resting against a cedar stump—face downward. We could not discover any marks of violence. In the immediate vicinity were all the requisites of an Indians wakiup; two pans, an empty lard can, etc.: an old pen knife was under his head, and in the ashes of his camp fire were found two more knives, one murderous looking bowie, the handle of which was brass tipped, and guarded, with a blade eleven inches long, the other was a common black handled table knife, sharpened on the end to a keen point. A sharpened on the end to a keen point. A flint and steel, together with other trifles were among the things hid in the ashes. Within ten feet of the body were the car-casses of four white coyote dogs, three of them were tied together and then tied to a stump; they lay dead in a heap; the other seems to have remained for company, as it was not tied, though like its companions gone to silent dreamland. Food, comprising biscuit, bread and cheese, as if gleaned from some of the houses in town, was scattered between the curs and their master, and it is hard to conceive how they died, unless 'twas put there after their death. Indications prove that two or three weeks have elapsed since their demise. Not having the necessary implements at hand to put the body in the ground, we again covered it with the boughs and brush at hand, and left to acquaint the authorities.

ANOTHER DEPLORABLE CASE.

We were informed by Mr. Williams that he had reasons to believe that we had not seen all. He leading the way, deflecting to the left, on our return, brought us face to face with a scene more dreadful and heartrending than the last. Near the summit of a low hill, verging the desert, about three-fourths of a mile the desert, about three-fourths of a mile from the infirmary, lay the living skele-ton of an old squaw, gray-haired, wrinkled, and, with the exception of a pair of moccasins and arabbitskin cloak, entirely nude. Upon approaching she opened her eyes, the only motion made while we remained. Her blanket, and accountements are under the above. accoutrements were under the shade of a neighboring bush, from which she had crawled to die on the less inviting rocks. Mr. Williams made her as comfortable as possible with the means at command. she appeared too far gone to realize any attention and too weak for removal.

Medicine or stimulants could not be forced on her, and we had to leave her, until an ambulance might be dispatched.

The deplorable misery here existing rests not with the Commissioners, as the Indian question is beyond their jurisdiction.

SEEKING INFORMATION. -The following note has been addressed to our local reporter: "Is tallow, rubbed on the nose, a sure remedy for colds? Please answer, and oblige." Well, no; tallow is merely a panacea for surface indications. To alleviate, six pocket 'kerchiefs, per day, ain't bad; but to effectually cure, the nasal organ should be scraped carefully. inside and out, until the layers of natural coating are removed. Then rub thoroughly with a paste of mustard and lard. as if for mange, allowing it to remain a ten minutes; this should be washed out with soft soap. A warm poultice of tur-pentine, sal-soda, ugentum, bran and linseed oil must be then applied. Re-is unusually large, to which he invites move the latter when cold and bathe the afflicted member in coal tar, ingesting as much of it as possible, swaddle in flan-nel and go to bed. This simple remedy will no doubt disturb the root of the disease, after which, wash it in a solution of lime water and salt. If attended to as described, we feel assured in promising that the cold will never bother you again—neither will the nose.

"ROOSTERS."-The acme of temporial happiness may be met with amid the groups of well-dressed young men who congregate on our street corners daily. Many of these intellectual weaklings, through some strange accident, or capricious turn of fate, have gathered a few dollars. Brimful of conceit and caco-phony they force their nauseous carcases everywhere. The laborer, as he climbs the thorny thicket, and walks the foot-blistering gravel is shunned, while the "rooster," as if on a macadamised turn-pike travels in the "best society." This is not as it should be; there is more esteem due the man who can tear affluesteem due the man who can tear amu-ence from opposing fate by strength of will and inflexibility of purpose. More satisfaction in conquering a fortune with brain and muscle than was ever derived from being born with a silver spoon in the mouth. See to it girls and give encouragement to actual worth; let your every day life shine with an endeavor to shun the class of whom we speak. Avoid their company, as there is much truth in the axiom: "Birds of a feather flock to-

The fire companies were promptly on the ground, but owing to the distance from water could not be put to service. We water could not be put to service. We were unable to learn the name of the oc-

REGISTRATION.—There are only one hundred and one names registered as yet for the coming school election. As there were over seventeen hundred booked prior to the last general election, about one thousand of whom are men of families, 'tis time they see to having their names enrolled, as the books will be closed on the 8th of the present month.

Attend to it, gentlemen! TROUT.-A wagon load of fresh trout lasted the gormadizers of this peaceful burg less than an hour yesterday. Bring along your fish.

REPORTED DISCOVERY OF A GOLD LODE. It has long been a matter of wonder that Nevada, being the richest of the silverproducing regions, and with rich gold deposits all around her, has not, as yet, cut any figure in gold production. It has been surmised—and cor-rectly, we think—that this may be ac-counted for from the fact that gold has been but little prospected for between the Sierra Nevada and the Colorado. But the promise now is that Nevada may yet become famous for gold quartz min-ing. We are told that a rich and welling. We are told that a rich and well-defined auriferous vein has been discovered about sixty miles north of Pioche, a few miles this side of Sacrametno district. We hope the report may prove BULLION ROBBERY. --- Last Tuesday night four bars of base bullion were taken, by thieves, from the Pioche assay office, at the head of Meadow Valley street. The scoundrels effected an entrance through an air hole which ventilates the assay furnace, departing through a hole through which the ashes is thrown out. The bul lion stolen is of an inferior quality, as the purer metal is never kept in the office. It was secured in a box; the cover of which was forced off, and broken. The kleptomaniacs were tracked over the hill in the direction of Bullionville where all traces were lost.

ENLIVENING.-A lively skirmish occurred last evening, on Lacour street, between a couple of the nymphs du pave. After a few rounds, in which they moderately enlivened each other, though system was not brought into display, the combat was closed by a third party, of the same sex, caroming on the head of one of the belligerents with a porter bottle. This was the means of ending the disgusting scene, as, at the call of "time" the recipient of the missile was "groggy and unable to put up her "props.

CANINE. - Residents in the neighborhood of the spring, near the Courthouse, will no doubt snicker with delight to know that of late it has been used to swim dogs in. The seductive flavor, as soon as it becomes palpable, will create a terrible ecstacy. This is not a fairy tale, nor clipped from the breezes of romance; ask the youngsters thereabouts if they've yet succeeded in smothering those pups.
